

the Summer that Was

It's been a great summer. What if the mosquitoes did bite, and the hot sand stung, and the lawn never stopped growing, and a thunderstorm flooded the cookout . . . ?

When Labor Day comes round again, it is still too soon. Instant nostalgia softens the retrospective view of summer and, as September sidles in, the country seems to gather itself for one last glorious celebration of the golden idyll—before turning away from it back to the city, to business, to school.

Then there will be the moments of humor to remember, a part of the season's afterglow, helping to warm the cold months to come.

Here is AP cartoonist Al Simonsen's view of—the summer that was.

"AHHH . . . that's better . . . see if there's any more cubes in the freezer!"

"You were right . . . end of the season . . . privacy . . . beach all to ourselves!"

When femininity is your fashion theme, count on Marion Digney as the designer with you in mind. Pretty fall midi (left) consists of a ribbon-edged jumper dress in soft purple and red wool tweed over a crepe shirt with bow-tied neckline and sleeves falling freely to precise cuffs. The soft wool knit dress (right) takes a double-stranded reptile tie woven through parallel gold loops to draw in a pretty waist. In burgundy, it covers the arms in long skinny sleeves and puts the knee in hiding.

FASHION IN THE NEWS

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Women want femininity in fashion now after several seasons of tough chic. And designer, Marion Digney, knows how to create it.

For Fall and Winter '70 her designs are based on the feminine theme, done in a variety of long lengths and alive with the romantic flavor that has put this talented designer in the forefront of fashion at the age of 24.

There are mid-lengths in soft wool, ruffle-trimmed day dresses. Evening looks are in delicate sheer fabrics — yet all are wrinkle-free.

Miss Digney, who made reptile accessories a national rage, goes on to use them in the purest fashion sense as trim for the prettiest double-knit day dress where a slender three-ply waist sash is drawn through gold loops.

A chic black reptile coat dress stands out in the collection. Its belted waist is silver buckle-trimmed. And it is deceptively light in weight. For the traveler, her "umbrella" pleated skirt folds accordion-style to achieve wrinkle-free packing.

This season wild colors make way for the soft muted tones that highlight this collection. A beautiful range of the prettiest shades spread across the line in feminine accompaniment to the de-

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
ap television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jim Phelps, intrepid leader of the "Mission: Impossible" team will have a new method of operation when the CBS series returns next month for its fifth season.

Once a week for the past four years, the leader has sneaked off to an empty telephone booth or an old warehouse and, by prearrangement, found a tape recorder set up to give him an assignment. Then, with a muffled explosion and curl of smoke, the machine "self-destructs."

But no more. "The tape business and the word 'self-destruct' caught on and then became a joke and a gag line," explained Peter Graves, who plays Phelps. "We didn't want it to be a joke, so we're cutting it out as a weekly device."

The series also will abandon the weekly scene in which Phelps looks over a batch of pictures and picks his group for the derring-do. It seemed a futile exercise, anyway, since each time he picked just about the same people—Gregg Morris, Peter Lupus, Leonard Nimoy. Occasionally there was a male guest star and last season, after the departure of Barbara Bain, there were an assorted number of lady agents. This season, however, Lesley Warren has been signed as a regular.

A bigger change for "Mission: Impossible" will be its shift from a late Sunday spot, with its largely adult audience, to an early evening position on Saturdays, when there is a large children's audience.

Presumably the hard-core signs. If the gauchito look is for you, count on Marion to do it up in sexy black wool and add nailhead trim to make sure that your gauchito stands out in the crowd. The nailheads, like the ribbon and braid trims that run throughout the collection add shaping as well as design.

If your first midi fling is a fall plaid dress, you can add sophistication by wearing a "kiltie" with diagonal hem — fringe-trimmed.

The side- and front-button closing may be left open to free the knees in stride.

It's a great combo of oomph and practicality.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED for it, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

Dear Helen:

Could you please repeat the "What Is a Teenage Boy," which one of your daughters wrote last year? Thank you. —US

Dear Us:

When requests for a repeat go over fifty, it's time to comply. Forthwith:

HIM! (With apologies to Allen Beck)

Between the innocence of childhood and the responsibilities of fatherhood, after Little League and before college protests, we find a gangly, irreverent creature called a teenage boy.

He comes in various sizes, shapes, cars and clothes, the latter usually consisting of either tie-dyed bellbottoms, cut-offs, or stay-press slacks (which aren't), an almost clean muscle shirt and ragged tennie-runners (cq), unless he is barefoot. He wears a suit only for weddings and funerals and considers them equally revolting.

He spends his summer growing two inches of hair around the neckline and an indefinite number of hairs on his chin, all of which are removed on parental request when he puts on his shoes and starts back to school.

A teenage boy can be found fans will rearrange viewing habits to follow the program, but inevitably the program will be exposed to a new audience.

"There will be a difference in the scripts," promised Graves. "We'll be cutting out so many stories about South American dictators and Iron Curtain plotters."

He spoke while standing in the center of a set which looked like the square of some Iron Curtain town, complete with fountain and live pigeons.

"We're trying to smuggle the daughter of an important official out of the country," explained the actor.

Pope Paul VI's temporal title is Sovereign of the State of Vatican City.

Magic! Midis Out of Minis

By JOANNE SCHREIBER

But what can I do with my minis?

I can't afford a whole new wardrobe!

My new coat is only a year old.

I think the midi looks dowdy!

I'm too tall (or short or fat or thin) for a midi.

The excuses are coming thick and fast. But no matter how much you loved the mini era, it's over. And now what?

Now it's back to the sewing machine, to adapt last winter's clothes to this fall's fashion, to try different lengths and different proportions and decide what new outfits to sew first.

Your first problem is your winter coat. If you have some hem, and if the corners at the front haven't been clipped (to eliminate bulk under the front facing) there's hope. Let the hem all the way out and try the coat on with boots. If the length is O.K., give it a faced hem of bias strips, adding interfacing for body if it seems necessary, and join the fashion parade.

Not enough hem to let down? Add something to the hem. Real and fake furs are available in strips, just like other trims. Flat furs will give you an extra two or three inches. Long-haired furs will give even more. Try gray Persian with a gray wool, black fox or monkey fur on a black coat, fake fur on casual coats. Repeat the fur in hat, collar or cuffs, add those important shiny new boots, and you're off.

One fur-edged coat is enough for anyone. Cut your other winter coat to car-coat length, give it a pair of matching or co-ordinated slacks and have an instant pants suit.

If you bought a good suit last year and it has a longer jacket and an A-line skirt, there's hope. Take off the waistband, open the darts, and see if you can drop it to the right length. Add a skirt yoke of lining material and a longer overblouse and you'll be able to wear it for another couple of years.

If you have a couple of expensive and especially becoming dresses, it's well worth your while to convert them to the new look. (Forget about cottons, summer shifts, tired or worn dresses. They aren't worth your time.) A quick trick is to cut your dress to tunic length and make matching slacks. Or you can leave your dress alone and add a longer over-skirt. A good black crepe could take a black wool, velvet or heavy satin. A neutral knit could take a tweed.

Chances are the dress will have enough hem—dresses don't have to be the full mid-length, and can be quite a bit shorter than coats. Rows of cording, trim or top-stitching can cover up a crease-line. So can some crewel-work, trapunto or machine embroidery. The peasant look is so big that you could embroider a wide band of flannel to stitch to the hem of a flannel jumper and repeat the motif on a collar or pocket. If the top of a dress fits well, is fashionable and becoming, you can make it a whole new skirt of color-matching fabric, in a different texture. If a band of fabric added at the bottom looks like an afterthought, insert the band at a point higher on the skirt.

To start your new-look sewing, make a mid-skirt, buttoned down the front, to wear with boots and wide leather belt. Make it good and long, and pin it to different lengths before hemming to decide your own best length. You'll probably find that the new look is more a matter of good proportion than actual inches from the floor.

No, you don't have to throw out your wardrobe—if you sew, you can be in fashion all the time.

So You Want To Be...

By ERNIE HOOD
"Jersey Hotrodder" writes: "My dad says I'm bugged on cars. I'll admit they are my thing. Can I make 'em a career?"

Dear "Jersey Hotrodder": Very definitely. Between 600,000 and 700,000 wage earners are now employed as automotive mechanics. I mention this job category in particular because wages are good—ranging from $3.50 to about $7 an hour—and because our Bureau of Labor Statistics indicates that employment of automobile mechanics is expected to increase.

A prime reason, of course, is the expected increase in the number of automobiles as well as increases in the driving age population and consumer income. I should emphasize, however, that completion of high school is an advantage because to most employers high school graduation indicates that an applicant can "finish a job" and has potential for advancement.

Most training authorities recommend the completion of a three- or four-year apprenticeship as the best way to learn this trade. Apprenticeship information can be obtained at any of the field offices of the Labor Department's Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training, located in principal cities across the country.

"Mac" M. Cheyenne, Wyo., asks: "What's the job outlook for commercial pilots? I am definitely interested in flying, but would like some assurance that a career awaits."

Dear "Mac": I certainly can give you reassurance, provided, of course, you've got what it takes. Bureau of Labor Statistics projections show a rapid rise in the employment of airline pilots all through the '70s.

There are more than 25,000 pilots and co-pilots presently employed. These people are among the highest paid in

Rich Hand Halts Angels' Win Streak

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookie Rich Hand put a temporary halt to the streaking California Angels but the American League West battle is rapidly tightening as the Minnesota Twins continue their fadeaway.

The Angels ran their winning streak to four in beating Cleveland 3-2 in the opener of a two-night doubleheader Friday night but Hand, a right-hander, came back in the nightcap to stop California 5-1 with a one-hitter.

However, in New York, the Yankees nailed the Twins twice, belting Minnesota 6-0 behind Fritz Peterson's three-hitter in the opener then taking the second 2-1 on Mike Kekich's five-hitter.

It was the Twins 15th loss in their last 21 contests going back to Aug. 9, when they held a nine-game edge over the Angels. That margin is now down to three.

"They're making it harder on themselves," said Bill Rigney, skipper of the Twins, after the double loss. "They're trying too hard. Our pitching has been decent for the most part but we're not getting enough runs."

"They've been in a pennant race before. It shouldn't shake them but the way things are going ... I don't know," Rigney added.

Hand, now 6-9, is 4-0 over the Angels this year. "I don't know what it is," he said. "I just luck out against them. We get the runs and the breaks, it seems, when I pitch against them."

The lone hit off Hands came in the first inning when Roger Repoz ripped his 18th homer of the year.

In other AL games, Baltimore split a twinbill with Milwaukee, dropping the opener 2-1 before taking the finale 8-4, Washington and Kansas City split, the Senators copping 2-1 before losing 3-1, Oakland topped Detroit 6-2 and Boston edged Chicago 5-4.

In the National League, Houston nipped the New York Mets 2-1, Montreal trimmed Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings, Philadelphia stopped Atlanta 5-2, St. Louis blanked Los Angeles 1-0, San Francisco topped Pittsburgh 5-1 and Chicago thumped San Diego 8-4.

The Angels won the first game on consecutive eighth-inning singles by Sandy Alomar, Repoz and Jim Fregosi. It was Fregosi's 16th game-winning hit. "He should be the most valuable in the league," said Angels manager Lefty Phillips of his shortstop, Fregosi has driven in 72 runs with a .286 average, including 19 homers.

The Yankees took the opener behind Peterson, 14-9, and Gene Michael's three runs batted in. Bobby Murcer raced home from third with the winner in the ninth inning of the nightcap on reliever Ron Perranoski's wild pitch with two out.

Houston Downs Mets; 2-1 Score

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Wade Blasingame's Golden Rule where ex-schoolmate Tom Seaver and the New York Mets are concerned is: Do unto others before they do it unto you.

Blasingame, a left-hander recently recalled by Houston from the minor leagues after several seasons in the majors with the Braves and Astros, beat Seaver and the Mets for the second time in 10 days 2-1 Friday night and ran his career mark against the New Yorkers to 9-0.

It was the Mets' fourth loss in five games but again they didn't lose any ground to Pittsburgh, in the National League East, remaining 2½ games behind the Pirates, who were the victims of Juan Marichal's 20th career victory, losing to San Francisco 5-1.

The Chicago Cubs, however, pulled to within three games of the top as Ferguson Jenkins ran his record against San Diego to 6-0 and doubled home two big runs in the eighth and an 8-4 triumph.

Elsewhere in the NL, Montreal upended Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings, St. Louis nipped Los Angeles 1-0 and Philadelphia whipped Atlanta 5-2.

In the American League, the New York Yankees took two from Minnesota 6-0 and 2-1, California edged Cleveland 3-2 before losing 5-1, Oakland downed Detroit 6-2, Milwaukee shaded Baltimore 2-1 but the Orioles took the nightcap 8-4, Boston held off the Chicago White Sox 5-4 and Washington and Kansas City split a pair, the Senators winning 2-1 and the Royals bouncing back 3-1.

"We played together in school," recalled Blasingame of his days with Seaver at Fresno, Calif., High. "Then we went our separate ways, Tom to USC (the University of Southern California) and I went on and signed a professional baseball contract."

Blasingame limited the Mets to four hits—they scored in the second on Donn Clendenon's triple and Ron Swoboda's single—and retired 17 consecutive batters over one stretch.

The Astros managed only three hits off Seaver, but bunched them all in the third inning for both runs and dealt the Mets' ace his fourth straight defeat.

Cesar Cedeno opened the third with a bunt single and continued to second on Joe Foy's throwing error.

AFTER ALL these years of having the same gesture made towards him, can Leo Durocher finally be getting his revenge? No, not quite. Leo is not really throwing umpire Lee Weyer out of the game, as it may appear. He's gesturing behind him to point out a player he thought was out.

Counting on Patched Knees to Hold Up

By JACK KEEVER

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas coach Darrell Royal admits his defending national champion Longhorn squad should be good this year if some patched up knees hold together and the defensive backfield goes without too much patching.

Texas could set a Southwest Conference record of 23 straight victories if it wins its first three games this season, and many fans expect the Longhorns and Arkansas Razorbacks to stage a rematch Dec. 5 of their unbeaten battle last year.

But it is a long time from August to September, and Royal quickly told a interviewer of seven players who have had knee trouble since 1969—six requiring surgery.

He appeared startled when an aide mentioned a seventh player who has an operation—second-team All-American Bill Atessis, a tough, agile 255-pound defensive end.

The others are starting linemen David Arledge, Tommy Woodard, Carl White, and Deryl Comer, top sub linemen Bruce Gaw and Bill Rutherford, and second-team fullback Bobby Calison.

Tight end Comer will miss the season because he did not fully recover from his operation.

Thirty-four lettermen are returning, most off the 1967 freshman team which Royals says is the "best class we ever recruited."

"The pieces have to fall in place," says Royal, "but we should have a good offensive football team and a good defensive team."

He nominates California, UCLA and Oklahoma, however, as the toughest slate on non-conference teams Texas has played since he became coach. The Southwest Conference 5 also appears stronger than last year when Texas averaged 44 points a game against conference foes and rolled up 3,630 yards rushing for the 10-game season, a new SWC record.

Leading the assault troops again this year will be fullback Steve Worster and halfback Jim Bertelsen who combined last season for a 22 touchdowns and 1,389 yards rushing.

Slippery Cotton Speyrer, who can turn an ordinary pass reception into a quick touchdown, is back at split end, and 235-pound tackle Bobby Wuensch, 253-pound guard Randy Stout, Mike Dean and Bobby Mitchell return from last year's overpowering interior line.

Eddie Phillips, bigger and faster than unbeaten James Street, will take over from Street at quarterback. Halfback Billy Dale will replace Ted Koy, who was a high pro draft choice.

Royal says that despite the number of veterans his lineup "is not 100 per cent set"—that White, Scott Palmer, Travis Roach and junior college All-American Ray Dowdy all have a shot at the defensive tackle spots and sophomore Jerry Sisemore, 233, could claim a starting offensive line job over a letterman.

But Royal says the "crucial" position, the place where he thinks the Longhorns cannot overcome an injury, is in the defensive backfield.

The loss of junior Freddie Steinmark, who had his leg cut off in a cancer operation Dec. 12, left only Danny Lester and Rick Nabors as experienced backs in the secondary.

"I don't know what we'd do if they got hurt," Royal said. Sophomores Alan Lowry and Mike Bayer are 1-2 at the other defensive back.

The linebackers include two academic all-Americans, Scott Henderson and Bill Zapalac.

A new ingredient in the Longhorn attack is Dean Campbell, 5-foot-5 and 155 pounds, who seemed to break a punt every time he got his hands on the ball in spring training.

PROSPECTUS—Old gang may be breaking up (five defense regulars retired or departed, plus four on offense), but foes still respect Packer talent. Old-time will to win, however, is missing under coach Phil Bengtson. Haven't got that Lombardi-instilled drive. It's intangible thing, but it affects them.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Moot point how long 36-year-old Bart Starr can stay healthy. Virtually gave way to young Don Horn last year. Even if Bart starts, he'll eventually share time with Horn. That means no consistency of leadership, despite obvious talents. Rating—B

RECEIVING—Shocked by retirement of Boyd Dowler, plus defection of Marv Fleming. But got couple of vets to take up slack in Jack Clancy, Green Bay native who played at Miami, John Hilton of Steelers. With Carroll Dale still spry, they won't be hurting. John Spillis will make Clancy hustle, too. Rating—B

RUNNING—Almost overabundance. Way it looks now, might not even have room for high-priced Jim Grabowski. Travis Williams has to play; Dave Hampton is sure ground-gainer. So what do you do with versatile Donnie Anderson. Perry Williams looks like he's ready to bust out, too, as full-fledged pro. Rating—B+

LINE—They'll miss Forrest Gregg for field leadership as well as talent. Main problem could be they're really got no eager kids pushing guys already on job. Tackle like Francis Peay needs to be stimulated. The steady guys up front are center Ken Bowman, guard Gale Gillingham (all-pro stuff). But that's only fraction of old title gang. Rating—B-

DEFENSE

LINE—This is where Pack could be burned. Just don't lose guys like Willie Davis, Henry Jordan casually. Going with enough experience on outside in Bob Brown, Lionel Aldridge. But chancing it with kids in middle, Rich Moore and Mike McCoy. They're huge and Mike, a rookie, is real stuff. But Moore was lethargic in debut. Possible solution might be to move Brown inside, put linebacker Fred Carr on terminal. Rating—B-

LINEBACKING—Usual bravos. Where do you find better ones than fiery Ray Nitschke in middle, Dave Robinson on strong side? And could afford to peddle LeeRoy Caffey because spot had to be made for Carr. Now there's also Jim Flanigan knocking for opportunity. They're all not only big and strong, but spirited and agile. Rating—A

SECONDARY—Unless Herb Adderley changes mind about retiring, because of money, there's trouble here, too. Raw rookie Al Matthews would have to get the shot. Rest of unit is same. Willie Wood of safety, Bob Jeter on right corner seem to go on forever. Doug Hart's almost in their age group, too. All over 30; so's Adderley. But they're needed. Rating—B-

KICKING—Nagging problem. Booth Lusteg, Mike Mercer, pickup Joe Runk are field goal candidates, and all are castoffs, with erratic histories. Donnie Anderson remains punter—gets 'em high, but not far. Rating—C

Lips Unzippered, Courtesy NCAA

By MARTY RALBOVSKY

NEW YORK—(NEA)At its annual basketball finals, the NCAA passes out to newsmen dry roast beef sandwiches and even drier mimeographed quotes from the winning and losing coaches while locking the doors of dressing rooms so the kids won't slip and say something that isn't in the regulations manual or the loose leaf SOP.

But finally, a faction from the Walter Byers School of Public Rhetoric is attempting to be relevant in this year 1970 A.D. The breakthrough came from a recent NCAA-sponsored trip of three college players to South Vietnam for the usual rap-and-reel sessions with the troops.

They turned up at a Manhattan restaurant, and went one-on-one with the Eastern Chimpunks (a breed of sportswriters) who, knowing the NCAA, were expecting another episode in the long-running Pollyanna Goes to War.

The players were Scott Henderson, a Texas linebacker; Larry DiNardo, a Notre Dame offensive guard, and Scott Hunter, the latest in the line of glib Alabama quarterbacks. So freely did they speak, even Howard Cosell dipped into his attache case of adjectives and called their honesty "extraordinary."

They said, among other things, that college football was not the rah-rah slice of Americana they thought it was going to be; that red-shirting is an evil practice devised by coaches and used for their own benefits and not the players'; and that they are expecting some of their own games this fall to be disrupted by their fellow students who are concerned with things other than national rankings and are not suppressed by athletic protocol.

They agreed, too, that college athletes are striving desperately to be heard on the social issues they consider important and that they would like to be judged as concerned individuals and not just refugees from the athletic dorm, traditionally called "the zoo." As if to accentuate these points, Henderson said, in an affirmative voice, that South Vietnam "was a combination of bad mistakes, and we have no choice but to get out of there—the sooner the better for all concerned."

The NCAA people in attendance did not choke on their apple pie a la mode and, in fact, even encouraged the young men to answer all questions to the audience's satisfaction. The entire session lasted an hour longer than expected—because newsmen wouldn't stop with the questions—and when it did end, DiNardo hoisted a glass of beer and said: "Best damn press conference I ever saw. Nothing like being yourself."

Larry Klein, head of the NCAA statistical bureau, said after the affair, "These kids are thinking, too, and it's not right to censor their thoughts just because they're athletes. We told them to go ahead and speak their minds, and I'd say they did."

One still cannot envision, however, Woody Hayes, sitting in his living room in Columbus, reading such remarks and saying to himself, "Way to tell 'em, boys." But some in the NCAA apparently believe, as in the fat man theory, that inside college uniforms there are intelligent individuals screaming to get out.

As Hunter said, "Once the season starts, we'll all go back to playing our roles. Coach Bryant has his role, and I've got mine. We all know it. Nobody's fooling anyone."

BOB COCHNAR

Hugh Downs: The One-Race Racer

By BOB COCHNAR

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The drivers, clad in their Nomex fire-resistant suits and Snell Foundation-approved helmets, stood poised at the start-finish line, waiting for the green flag.

At the drop, they dashed across California's Ontario Motor Speedway's track in a classic LeMans start. What a group of taut, tightly controlled men they were!

Let's see. There were Dick Smothers and astronaut Pete Conrad, and Dino Martin (Dean's kid) and Pancho Gonzales and blue-eyed Paul Newman. And Hugh Downs. Hugh Downs? You might say the event was not precisely in the Grand Prix category.

It was, in fact, a pro-am benefit for the Motion Picture and Television Relief Fund put together by David Lockton, impresario and wunderkind of Ontario.

Hugh Downs, the affable host of the NBC-TV Today show, returned home in rather fine fettle, having placed a respectable fourth in the 12-lap race. His teammate, Mark Donohue, Downs admits, helped some. "We were paired," he says, "because of compatible size and emotional temperament, which is quite a compliment to me."

Downs is no stranger to adventure. He has sailed the Pacific in a small yacht, ridden a killer whale and enjoys scuba diving. But racing in competition, regardless of what or who the competition is, is something else again.

Since all the entrants drove identical Porsche 914s, there was at least equality in the machinery department. The rules were strange. A professional would do three laps and turn the hot and turning car over to the amateur. There would be a compulsory pit stop when crew members like Arte ("Verry interesting") Johnson and Chuck Connors would check tire pressures. And then a driver change until the amateurs finished the race.

Downs spent a weekend at Bob Bondurant's driving school at Ontario "and did some heel-and-toeing of my own on eastern turnpikes in a borrowed Porsche. And I talked to a lot of drivers, learning something from each of them."

The popular television celebrity who maintains a "devout coward" pose says he agreed to race "because Kirk Douglas asked me. I have a habit of agreeing to do practically everything." Which obviously holds some interesting possibilities.

He admitted to a "tremendous fear of coming in dead last. I really didn't care if I won or not, but to arrive last would have been a terrible embarrassment. One of my great satisfactions is not being passed by anybody."

"You know, I did this because I was interested in doing it. The exhilaration of driving in competition is something you can't experience second-hand. Of course, at the end of the race I immediately announced my retirement."

So Hugh Downs is quitting the sport. Somebody spotted what might have been a faraway look in his eyes. "On the other hand," he went on, "I really didn't do badly out there for the first time. If I went out and honed it up a bit, I could cut seconds off my time. I think I could correct what I did wrong and then, maybe, maybe, maybe."

Racing has hooked another one.

May Finance Faster-Than-Sound Plane

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy, reversing his position of a year ago, has endorsed federal assistance for development of a faster-than-sound commercial airplane.

Kennedy said in a statement submitted Thursday to a Senate subcommittee the department changed its position because "it now appears that a viable foreign competitive aircraft will be in service in 1974."

He referred to the British-French Concorde which, he said, has produced better than expected results.

The Senate transportation appropriations subcommittee is conducting hearings on whether to continue the government's $1.3 billion assistance program to develop a faster-than-sound commercial airliner.

Last year the Treasury opposed a further heavy commitment of federal funds, asserting the SST probably would result in a further balance of payments deficit in the absence of a competitive foreign aircraft.

Kennedy's statement was contained in a packet of endorsements from Cabinet officers and heads of government agencies submitted to the panel by the White House.

Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said economic considerations point strongly in the direction of continuing the SST program through the production of a prototype.

Portland, Ore. Prepares for Protests

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Six thousand National Guardsmen were on alert today as Portland prepared for antiwar demonstrations during the American Legion national convention opening this weekend.

Other preparations include giving the Multnomah County sheriff emergency powers and setting up a special round-the-clock command post to coordinate activities of city, state and federal officers.

The antiwar protests are being organized by a group called the People's Army Jamboree, which urged demonstrations against the legion because of its call for military victory in Vietnam.

Late Thursday night, youths were continuing to drift in, congregating at three city parks that have been put aside for their overnight use and at two rock festivals sites 25 miles out of town.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, in an unprecedented television and radio address Tuesday, said Portland and the state were prepared to handle any violence.

Hopeful of Amendment to End War

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says he and other Senate war critics will consider anything above 40 votes a moral victory for the "amendment to end the war."

"I'm hopeful we'll get a majority of votes in the Senate," McGovern said.

But anything above 40 votes, he said, would be a declaration "that for the first time in the history of the United States a very substantial number of senators have voted to terminate a war in the midst of hostilities."

"That would be a remarkable expression, I think, of the discontent and concern in the country about an indefinite involvement in this war," said McGovern, a South Dakota Democrat.

Opponents of the amendment have denounced it as a blueprint for the first military defeat in U.S. history.

A vote on the amendment is scheduled Tuesday.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott has predicted about 35 votes for the amendment, which sets a Dec. 31, 1971, deadline for U.S. military disengagement and withdrawal from Southeast Asia.

"I submit that Vietnamization exposes American men to more danger than virtually any other alternative," McGovern said Thursday of President Nixon's war policy.

"It literally invites the sort of defeat the administration fears so deeply."

"The hard truth is that events in Cambodia have dealt a staggering blow to the whole Vietnamization strategy," he said.

Citing Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's remark last weekend that the United States will do everything it can to help the Lon Nol Cambodian regime, McGovern said:

"It means that we are now, in Cambodia, right back where we started in Vietnam a decade ago."

"The only difference is that thus far South Vietnamese forces are used to shore up the Cambodian government while American manpower takes their place back in Vietnam."

Sen. Charles Goodell, R-N.Y., another sponsor of the amendment, said the other half of the issue is the constitutional authority of the Senate to declare terms of war and peace.

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Two women inmates who escaped from Cummins Prison Farm Wednesday were captured Thursday in a field near the prison.

Nixon Gravely Troubled by Senate Delay

By JOE HALL

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's latest push for his welfare reform bill may speed up Senate Finance Committee action on it but the basic tug-of-war over the disputed legislation appears unchanged.

That was the view today of some of the bill's Senate supporters who said privately they do not think the President's statement will remove the opposition of conservatives on Finance.

This belief is based on the fact that, under the modification accepted by Nixon, the new family assistance plan still would go into effect nationally Jan. 1, 1972.

These backers said, however, they remain confident the committee eventually will report a bill and the Senate will pass it.

Nixon's announcement that he would accept the amendment of Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., in an effort to speed action on his proposal, would have two effects:

—The assistance plan would go into effect nationally six months later than originally planned. As the bill passed the House, the date would be July 1, 1971.

However, administration officials already had told Finance the mid-1971 time was impracticable because there has been so much delay on the bill.

Attempt to Set Fares Upsetting

By VERN HAUGLAND

AP Aerospace Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Civil Aeronautics Board attempt to set air fares has brought a flood of complaints and triggered an industry-wide quarrel over rates.

Even 32 congressmen who won a court order outlawing fare increases earlier this year appear somewhat appalled at the resulting turmoil.

They suggested Thursday it might be best for the CAB to leave the illegal fares in effect long enough to determine what is legal.

The problem dates back to last fall when the CAB rejected proposed fare increases as excessive. As a substitute, the CAB set a 6.35 per cent rate hike for the 11 trunk lines and 7 per cent for the nine local-service airlines.

The new fares went into effect last Oct. 1.

But the group of congressmen filed suit and the U.S. Court of Appeals invalidated the new fares on grounds the CAB had approved the schedule without due public notice.

Following orders of the CAB, the airlines filed revised fares to be effective Oct. 15. The CAB plans to rule on these by Sept. 15.

The new fare proposals differ sharply, and the airlines are at odds over them.

The group of congressmen charged Thursday all of the new filings are tainted by the illegal CAB order of last Sept. 12.

They said there is a serious question on the manner in which the new fare proposals were arrived at, because letters of instruction from individual airlines to their common agent, the Airline Tariff Publishers, Inc., have been made available to other airlines.

The net result was a substantially similar tariff filing by a number of carriers, thus raising the issue of possible violation of antitrust laws, they said.

The congressmen asked the CAB to suspend its investigation of the new fare proposals while it determines the fares that should apply. Meanwhile, the group said, the CAB either should roll back the fares to the level that prevailed last Sept. 30, or leave the current illegal fares in effect until legal fares have been established.

Would Remove Pornography Restrictions

By JIM ADAMS

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Repeal of all legal restrictions prohibiting adults from buying or possessing pornography reportedly has won final approval from the President's Commission on Pornography despite promised White House opposition.

Recommendations for laws against exposure of children to obscene pictures and a nationwide "sex re-education" program were also approved at a final commission meeting Thursday, a commission source said.

He said the final report also recommends laws against public display of obscene pictures and their use in unsolicited mail advertisements.

It also calls for broad and open public discussion across the country—"based on facts rather than fears"—to forge a public consensus on the availability of pornography.

The arguments for the most controversial recommendation, repeal of all U.S. adult censorship laws, have been extensively rewritten since the Associated Press disclosed a draft report three weeks ago. But the recommendation is almost unchanged:

"The commission recommends federal, state and local legislation prohibiting the sale, exhibition or distribution of sexual materials to consenting adults should be repealed."

"We believe there is no warrant for continued governmental interference of full freedom of adults to read, obtain or view what materials they wish."

The recommendation is based on commission findings pornography does not cause sex crimes or harm individuals. In addition, the commission reported, there is no public consensus to support such laws and they sometimes lead to suppression of legitimate material.

Repeal would not substantially increase the U.S. pornography industry, the commission said.

The White House disavowed the commission as former President Lyndon B. Johnson's shortly after the draft report was disclosed and said "it is safe to predict" President Nixon would oppose it.

Two commission members, Father Morton A. Hill of New York City and Charles H. Keating Jr. of Cincinnati, have already announced they will file dissenting views.

The source said there was some final-session vote switching against the repeal recommendation but not enough to alter final approval.

The 18-member commission completed its work with a seven-hour meeting Wednesday and a six-hour session Thursday, the source added, and almost certainly will not meet again although it does not go out of business until the end of September.

The report, plus 10 volumes of supporting research, are to be released in the next two to three weeks.

V.P. Assures Thai Leaders He'll Help

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has assured Thai leaders that he will "leave no stone unturned" in efforts to overturn congressional efforts to curb U.S. aid in Southeast Asia, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman said today.

Thanat said at a news conference that while the majority of the American people and the Nixon administration back U.S. efforts, "there are certain elements which would like nothing better than to push Southeast Asia into Communist hands."

He charged that these elements "want chaos and want to see complete failure of the Nixon Doctrine," under which the United States would help Asian nations defend themselves and help their neighbors.

"The vice president assured the Thai prime minister that he will leave no stone unturned to bring about an effective and prompt and adequate implementation of the Nixon Doctrine," Thanat added.

The foreign minister said Thailand would consider sending troops to Cambodia "only if the threat becomes acute."

"We shall avoid to the maximum extent possible a direct introduction (of troops) into Cambodia," he said.

The foreign minister gave no names in his mention of "certain elements" in the U.S. Congress.

Asked if he was referring to Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other antiwar leaders, Thanat replied: "You are very well informed people. There is no need for me to indulge in personalities."

Thanat said the talks with Agnew dealt with principles, rather than specifics. In an earlier news conference for Thai reporters, the foreign minister said Agnew promised he would do what he could to assure that U.S. aid for Thailand is maintained at the present level.

Agnew conferred with the Thai leaders for more than two hours this morning and at a working lunch. One point they made was that Thailand would want financial aid in return for sending troops or other assistance to Cambodia.

The disclosure came one day after an announcement from the U.S. State Department that Thailand plans to withdraw all or most of its 12,000-man force from South Vietnam.

Agnew arrived in Bangkok Friday on the last stop of a five-nation tour through Asia. He returns to the United States Sunday.

Agnew's talks with Prime Minister Thanom Kittakachorn, Foreign Minister Thanat Khoman and other Thai leaders took place against a backdrop of increasing congressional reluctance to underwrite "third nation" operations in Cambodia.

New School at Tucker

TUCKER PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said Wednesday that two new vocational schools at Tucker Intermediate Reformatory would be dedicated Tuesday.

The vocational training program at the schools has begun.

Inmates File $100,000 Suit

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — A Cummins Prison Farm inmate filed a $100,000 suit Thursday in U.S. District Court in Little Rock for injuries he allegedly received when he was struck in the face by a shotgun pellet.

James Oliver, 23, who is serving a nine-year sentence from Craighead County for burglary and grand larceny, charged in the suit that prison officials were responsible for his injuries because they "did place the shotgun in the hands of an irresponsible convict."

Toxic Metals New Problem in Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pollution by toxic metals presents "a much more serious and...insidious problem" than environmental damage from pesticides, weed-killers and nitrogen oxides, an expert has told a Senate subcommittee.

"Those metallic and elemental pollutants we have with us now are here to stay for a long time," Dr. Henry Schroeder said Wednesday in urging senators to make every effort to slow the buildup of elements which are toxic and can cause degenerative diseases.

Schroeder, a physiology professor at Dartmouth Medical School, said there is "little doubt in my mind that cadmium pollution is a major factor in human high blood pressure, of which 23 million Americans suffer."

In testimony inserted in the record by the Senate panel's chairman, Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., Schroeder added: "There is little doubt that at the present rate of pollution, diseases due to lead toxicity will emerge within a few years."

"Cadmium in air can be minimized or virtually abolished by abatement of zinc, from which it comes," while lead in air can be wiped out by eliminating alkyl lead additives to gasoline, he said.

Meanwhile, toxic problems of arsenic, lead and cadmium were reviewed by Carl L. Klein, assistant secretary of the Interior for water quality and research, who reported 4,800 pounds of lead and 98 pounds of arsenic are being discharged daily into the lower Mississippi River.

Louisiana authorities plan to hold hearings to ask offenders the same questions raised in mercury pollution cases, Klein said: "What are you going to do about these heavy metals?" and "When are you going to take action?"

The federal officials also said they will not tolerate after six months any detected amount of man-made mercury pollution.
